TRADE OF HAWAII

Report of Com. Kenny to Foreign Office.

Handiget of British Manufacturers-Their Goods-United States. Market for Goal.

The British Foreign Office has just published an exhaustive report of the trade of Hawali viewed in the light of the aniexation to the United States. The report was complied by Mr. Kenny, the British Acting Consul General in Honotulu. The total value of the import and export trade of the islands last year was Ch. 127, 870, of which £1,822,879 was the value of the imports and £3.304.491 that of the exports. The export of sugar last year amounted to 232.334 tons, all of which went to the United The share of the United States in the import trade was very nearly 77 per cent, while that of Great Britain and her possessions was nearly 12 per cent, the remainder-11 per cent being distributed equally between Germany, China, Japan, and all other countries. In the exports the share of the United States is still larger, and amounts to 99.62 per cent., or practically the whole trade. Sugar forms 96 & Cooke. per cent. of the total export trade of Hawali. In imports, British manu-facturers are heavily handicapped by distance, heavy freights and a tariff rarying from to to 25 per cent. Most American goods are imported free, un-der the reciprocity treaty. One attractive feature of American trade is the cheapness of the packing cases, which are frequently not charged for, while the charge for cases of English goods is extremely high; further, one of the chief reasons for the transfer to the United States of the trade in glassware tools, implements, woodenware, etc., is aid to be that English manufacturers are slow to adopt the light styles and new shapes that are in demand in the Hawailan market. Coal for steamer use is imported chiefly from British Columbia, Australia, and New Zealand. British cottons have declined in importance, and appear likely to decrease still more, and, for various reasonscheapness and better quality-American cottons are taking their place. In the better class of printed goods, ac-cording to Mr. Kenny, the British manafacturer more than holds his own still, the American competing in this class of goods with the French rather than the British producer. The sugar industry is prosperous and all the plantations are paying large dividends, mainly owing to the reciprocity treaty with the United States, but also to the enterprise and intelligence of the planin adopting new and improved methods of production and treatment
